WE HAVE THE
STROKE EDUCATION
YOU NEED

o
.....
Earn CE with robust stroke education! Building on the success of the sold-out Stroke Conferences from 2015 through 2019, the American Association of Neuroscience Nurses (AANN) continues to bring you even more stroke education. The AANN Advances in Stroke Care Conference addresses quality, clinical practice, and program management.

The Stroke Conference is the premier educational event for advanced practice nurses, stroke coordinators and administrators, critical care neuroscience nurses, nurses new to stroke care, and those preparing for the Stroke Certified Registered Nurse (SCRN®) examination. Get relevant stroke nursing education for you and your team, and take advantage of the register five and get a sixth registration free promotion!

Due to the 2020 Annual Educational Meeting cancellation, one track of general neuroscience education will be added to the conference program.

Thursday, August 20, 1:30-5:30 pm

3D Stroke Anatomy and Assessment

This session will take a deeper dive into the vessels and structures in the brain using Anatomage 3D software, color-coded vessels, and case studies. After taking this course, you will have a better understanding of assessment, potential deficits, and challenges as the patient moves from a stroke diagnosis to recovery expectations and rehab needs.

Fee: $60

Jaime Henderson,
MSN ACNP-BC

Thursday, August 20, 1:30-3:30 pm

Empowering Our Neuroscience Nurses

This lecture will cover the development of our Neuroscience Fellowship curriculum, designed to meet the clinical demand of the neuroscience patient population and to provide evidence-based practices to meet the challenges of nurses serving this population. The fellowship is a 2-year program comprising an integrated fundamental core curriculum to increase clinical competency and improve critical thinking capability across the neuroscience spectrum of care. Speakers will share results regarding nurse empowerment, retention, and role satisfaction.

Fee: $30

Young Stroke: Bridging the Continuum of Care

The increasing global prevalence of stroke among young adults transforms a once familiar diagnosis to a more perplexing trend across the continuum of stroke care. Neuroscience nurses are challenged to bridge public awareness to clinical response and clinical response to rehabilitation to ensure community reintegration. From her unique patient perspective, combined with National Institutes of Health award-winning expertise, Amy examines patient-centered practices for community hospitals, bedside care delivery, and rehabilitative services to raise awareness of unmet needs for this population.

TESTIMONIALS FROM PAST CONFERENCE ATTENDEES

“ Another fantastic conference. This is by far one of the best conferences around. If I have to choose which conference to attend on an annual basis, this is the one that I choose each and every year! ”

“ The SCRNI Review Course was a great review that made me want to continue to learn more. ”

“ I learned more than I could even comprehend. I have notes and notes of ideas that I can use to educate our staff, and I gained knowledge on how we can continue to improve our stroke program. ”
